Woodhull will read a paper on "Etiological Study of the Epidemic at Savannah in 1876."

SARAH'S SLAUGHTER.

Old Man Brutally Punched by a Buxom Wife.

The Far-Reaching Bullet of a Leadville Barber.

Columbus Girl's Fatal Fall Down Stairs.

Specials to the Star.

MEMPHIS, TENN., Nov. 19.—Information just received gives horrible details of the murder of an old man named S. D. Phillips by his wife, Sarah, in Marion County, Ark., far up White River, near the Missouri line. Phillips was over fifty years old, and his wife, who had been twice married before, is a well-preserved, buxom woman of thirty-five. The body was found in the yard, whence she had dragged it from the house where she had murdered him in his bed, crushing his head with an ax. The head was in fact literally cut to pieces, and the ax-blade had been sunk into the breast to the heart. The woman confessed to the coroner, who found that the deed was committed at her hands, and she is now in jail. Phillips owned a little farm, and leaves three children.

A BARBER'S LITTLE POP.

DENVER, COL., Nov. 19.—A Tribune Leadville special says that late last night a barber of that city was going home, when he was accosted by two men with the order to hold up his hands. He obeyed promptly, but held up a pistol also, which he discharged twice at his assailants. The latter ran some distance, and then turned and fired at the barber without effect. Some time afterward one of the men was found dead on the porch of an adjacent house, and the other was arrested and found to have a bullet-hole through his arm.

HARRELL'S HOUSEHOLD GOES.

SHELBYVILLE, IND., Nov. 19.—While Wm. Harrell and family, of Fairland, were at camp meeting last August their house was entirely destroyed by an incendiary fire. ## TWENTY-FOUR CHINAMEN KILLED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—Twenty-four Chinamen were killed and nineteen badly injured by the explosion of coal oil gas in tunnel No. 3 on Sequel Summit, South Pacific Coast Railroad. The tunnel runs through the oil region in the Santa Cruz mountains, and petroleum escapes into the opening. The Chinamen had lighted their torches when about 2,000 feet in the tunnel, without waiting to have the gas exhausted by air-pumps. Hinkle and Johnson, white men, were also seriously injured.

FIRE IN THE STANTON MINE.

WILKESBARR, PA., Nov. 19.—Last May the Stanton mine caught fire and it was found necessary to flood it to extinguish the burning coal. The work of removing the water was accomplished last Wednesday. Yesterday it was discovered that the fire had worked its way up beyond the point reached by the water. This will necessitate flooding the mine again, and water is now flowing in. All the work of months is lost, and it will be many weeks before the fire is extinguished and mining can be resumed.

STUMP PULLER'S AWFUL FATE.

MONTREAL, Nov. 19.—A special from Hamilton, Ont., says: A horrible accident is reported from Beverly Township. A man named John Schamp, while engaged in pulling stumps on his farm, took shelter from a rain-storm under a partially raised stump, and while there by some unknown means the chains failed, allowing the stump to fall on the unfortunate man, whose back was broken in two places and his intestines forced through his abdomen. No hopes entertained of his recovery.

THE WAR CLOUD.

Exciting Rumors Afloat in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Considerable excitement is caused throughout the city by rumors to the effect that war may be expected to be declared at any moment between Russia and England.

The dispatches from London to the Associated Press stated that Russia had requested Turkey to notify all the signers of the treaty of 1876 to send squadrons to the Dardanelles in case the English fleet entered the strait. The feeling ran high in certain circles, and some announced that the English Government had instructed Lord Dufferin, their representative at St. Petersburg, to cease negotiations with the Government of the Czar.

A reporter called on the English Consul to ascertain what information he had on the subject. The Consul said he knew nothing beyond what he had seen in the Times paper, and that he thought the news was sensational and without foundation.

It is not probable, in his opinion, that a serious state of affairs could arise so suddenly; still the rumors might be well-founded for anything he knew to the contrary, but as yet he had received no official notification on the subject.

ON LAKE ONTARIO.

Five Lives Lost in a Tug Boat Collision.

National Associated Press to the Star.

ONTOARIO, N. Y., Nov. 19.—From the latest information received it is believed that the only lost on board the tug of the tug Seymour, on Lake Ontario, Monday night, are Sam Logan and brother, Mr. Arnold, part owner, the cook and her husband, of Dredge No. 3. They would have been saved but for the tug Becker running into the dredge and saving a hole in her which caused her to founder.

Nearly all of the Seymour's tow has been found, and it is thought with the assistance that has been sent will all be picked up, except the Dredge No. 3, which was sunk by collision, and the tug Becker and O. Thayer, which foundered without any one on board.

One of the dredges is in Soda's right, one is off Soda's Point at anchor and can't be reached till morning, but will undoubtedly be picked up. Exaggerated reports of the disaster have no doubt been circulated, which the latest information does not justify.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 19.—One of the tugs reported lost near Oswego Tuesday morning has drifted to Soda's Point with thirteen persons on board.

WILD WEST WIND.

Further Disasters in the Colorado Storm.

Special to the Star.

Mr. Pickett, of Colorado Springs, was instantly killed, the driver's shoulder was broken, and all the other twelve passengers injured. Miss Josephine Meeker was snatched up in the mountains, and narrowly escaped with her life, missing her lecture engagement at Leadville.

In Brief.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 19.—The Board of Pardons decides that Andrew Tracy must hang December 4th.

DETROIT, Nov. 19.—The heavy wind today drove the Scow Maple Leaf, five schooners and a steam barge ashore, badly wrecking all. No lives lost.

OLD PAP THOMAS.

Unveiling of His Statue To-Day at Washington.

Special to the Star.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—For the reunion ceremonies to-day a monster tent has been erected on the vacant grounds south of the White House. It is large enough for the seating of 8,000 people.

The reunions will take place in this tent. Thus the ceremonies will be highly interesting. Hon. Stanley Matthews, the orator of the occasion, is the guest of the President. There is a long programme of music, recitation and speeches.

The procession to-day is fully equal to all anticipations, and many ex-Confederates are participating.

The monument of General Thomas is in its place, and is draped with flags for the formal unveiling. The metal is golden bronze, and the castings are unusually good.

The horse is a magnificent specimen, standing with his fore feet upon a little lump of earth, while the rider is represented as galloping at some object far away. The likeness of General Thomas, both in form and feature, is perfect. The pedestal is twelve feet high, of granite, the main block being one of the largest ever quarried.

One side shows a laurel wreath of bronze, and the insignia of General Thomas' rank; while on the other is the badge of the Army of the Cumberland. At each corner is a handsome bronze lamp-post with eight branches.

The cost of the statue was $40,000, and was paid for by the Army of the Cumberland. The pedestal and surroundings cost $17,000, and were provided by the Government.

Later.—The procession moved at 1 o'clock. General D. C. Buell cut the cords and Hon. Stanley Matthews delivered the address. General McCook addresses the Army of the Cumberland to-night.

WHO IS SHE?

A Woman Found Mangled and Dying on the Southern Road.

Special to the Star.

KINGS MOUNTAIN STATION, KY., Nov. 19.—An unknown woman with her head and shoulders badly cut and bruised, and apparently in a dying condition, was picked up, lying near the railroad track, about one mile south of this place.

She says her name is Blanche Early, and that she has a sister, Mrs. Gus Loringer, living in Cincinnati. She is apparently insane, but gives evidence of having been highly educated. When found she was entirely naked with the exception of a single garment.

She is of medium size, about thirty years of age, ordinarily good looking, uses good language, and converses very fluently on almost any subject. But her statements concerning herself are varied and conflicting. She is being cared for by the citizens.

REALLY ROMANTIC.

Chicago Conductor Marries an Heiress.

National Associated Press to the Star.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—The Daily News to-day publishes an interesting little romance coupled with the prosaic life of a Chicago street-car conductor.

John O'Brien is a handsome young conductor on the Ogden-avenue line. Among his daily passengers was Miss Fannie Farlin, a beautiful and accomplished young lady of twenty-two, heir to considerable property in Minneapolis, attending the Scammon High School.

He fell in love with her to the most casual observer it was apparent the affection was reciprocated. His suit was opposed by the Chase family, whose station in life is more exalted than O'Brien's.

The Chase family in the country Monday evening O'Brien took Miss Fannie to Father Cashman's Church, and they were married. Now he has his car again, and all his brother conductors are congratulating him. The Chases, in all probability, will be reconciled when they return.

Kellogg-Spofford.

National Associated Press to the Star.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 19.—Peter Williams and H. D. Munier were the only witnesses examined by the Kellogg-Spofford Investigating Committee yesterday.

GONE TO GALENA.

Chicago Sits Down and Counts Her Profit.

How Brother Orville Was Spirited Away.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—A story which has been all at for some days finds light in print to-day. It is to the effect that Orville Grant came to Chicago from the East, on Monday of last week, to meet his distinguished brother, Gen. Grant, and to see with him over his honor and fame abroad and safe return.

Orville was stopping at the Palmer House two days before the General's arrival, but being shabbily dressed, his sandy hair and whiskers long and bushy, and his general appearance that of a frontiersman, little attention was paid him.

The story goes that some army officers being desirous that nothing should occur to mar the pleasure of the General's reception, and fearing he would be embarrassed at meeting his uncouth and eccentric brother on such a public occasion, took Orville in and, plied him with liquors and partially forced him to leave the city.

They bought him a ticket to St. Louis, and started him off on Tuesday night's train. When the General arrived Wednesday and learned his brother had been here, he was greatly disappointed at not seeing him. The manner in which Orville had been spirited away was kept profoundly secret from him, and is only published to-day when the General has taken his departure.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—A morning paper to-day figures up the cost and gain to Chicago of the great Grant reception, from which it would appear to have been a good financial speculation to the city. It puts the number of outsiders in the city at the low estimate of seventy-five thousand, at an average expense of $5 each per day for three days, swelling the total business of Chicago by $1,125,000.

The four leading hotels alone estimate their increased receipts at nearly $30,000. The cost to the people of the city, mainly in decorations, is estimated at $50,000, leaving them a net gain of $1,075,000.

Gen. Grant, who left the city this morning at 10 o'clock, already has private engagements and public invitations to occupy his time three or four days, when he returns on his way East in December.

HARRY HULSE.

On Trial for Raping Hattie Hoberg.

The third day of the trial of Harry Hulse for the alleged rape of little Hattie Hoberg was devoted to the hearing of the following witnesses before Judge Longworth:

C. H. Longworth, a witness, testified that he knew Hulse for a year, and that he saw him on the day of the alleged crime between 3 and 3:30 o'clock on Clinton street with two small girls.

Wm. Johns was examined, and stated that he worked in L. H. & Co.'s paint shop on Clinton street. He knew Harry Hulse for six months previous to the occurrence of the rape. Hulse came to the store to buy paint.

The witness did not know whether Hulse had on a hat or cap, overcoat, coat or shirt, and he was dismissed by Major Blackburn, saying: "Well, if you can not tell whether the man was naked or dressed, I will not ask you anything more."

Robert Danzy, a teamster, saw Hulse on the day of the rape pass on Clinton street in company with two children. When Hulse passed him, he, the witness, said, "How are you, Harry?" Hulse did not answer.

Elizabeth T. Lohman, who lives at 32 Kenner street, near Lincoln Park, testified that she saw Hulse on the 18th of February coming down Kenner street, and two children were with him. Hattie Hoberg had a school bag, but the other had none. She saw Hulse afterwards at the Station-house, and identified him.
